

To shade a surface, pull back the reference shading via the gauss map

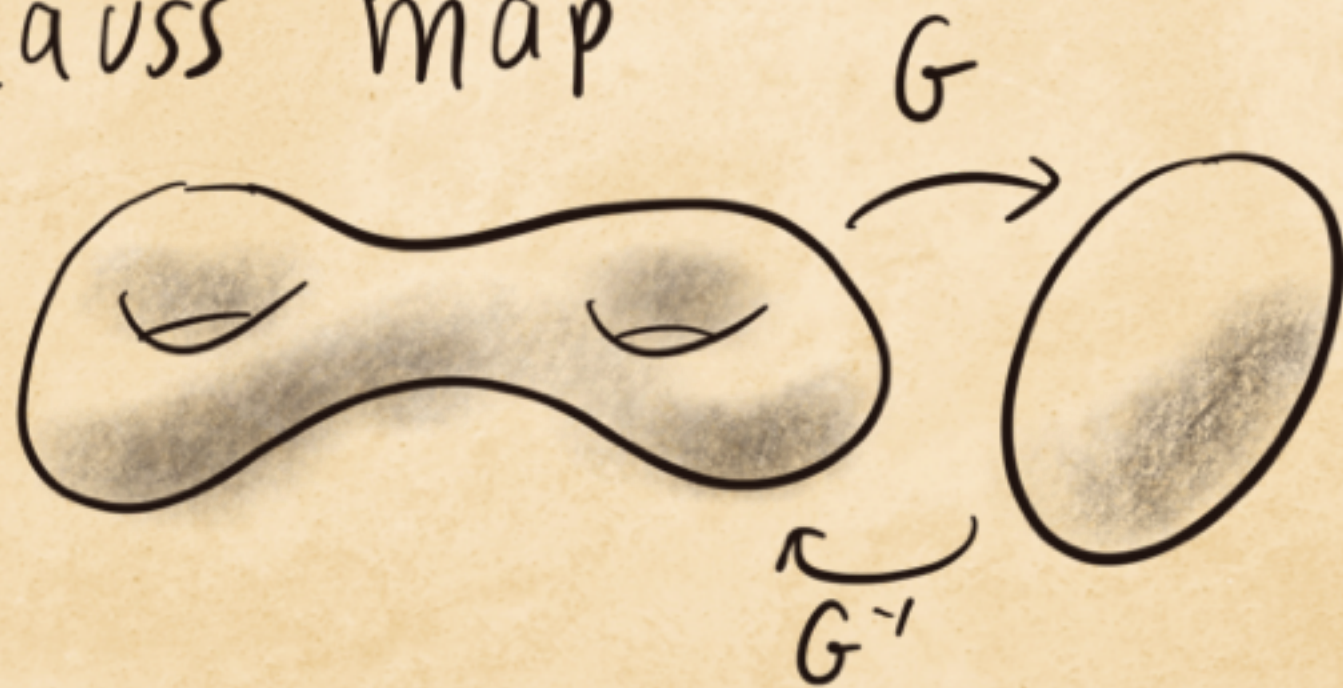

How does this help us draw?

The lighting information is contained in a reference shading of a unit sphere.

The lighting information is contained in a reference shading of a unit sphere.

To shade a surface, pull back the reference shading via the gauss map

How does this help us draw?

Where to put Highlight?

Single light source

